Red Cross Month

BY THE PRESIDENT OF
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A PROCLAMATION

The highest ideal of mankind is love, and the great challenge is to infuse love into the decisions and actions of daily living. "Love cannot be a mere abstraction," the American religious leader Mary Baker Eddy wrote nearly a century ago; we must "make strong demands on love, call for active witnesses to prove it, and noble sacrifices and grand achievements as its results." At about the same time, her contemporary Clara Barton was founding an organization that meets this challenge superbly -- The American Red Cross.

Today the hands of the Red Cross reach across the Nation and, through the League of Red Cross Societies, around the world, to bring relief wherever disaster, disease, misfortune, or war causes human suffering. The American Red Cross is chartered by Congress but its financing is purely voluntary, compelled by compassion alone. The success of its vital humanitarian mission rests upon generous gifts of time and money from millions of Americans.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RICHARD NIXON, President of the United States of America, and Honorary Chairman of the American National Red Cross, do hereby designate March 1971, as Red Cross Month, a month when the organization will appeal for your active help. I urge every American to measure his contribution of dollars and skills by the same rule that governs the work of the Red Cross -- The Golden Rule.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this fourth day of March, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred seventy-one, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred ninety-fifth.

-- RICHARD NIXON --

America: Is It Better Or Worse?

Warren Coleman, speaking on the topic "America, Is It Better or Worse?", represented Appomattox Jr. FFA Chapter recently in the Hub Federation FFA Public Speaking contest. Warren placed second behind the representative from William Campbell H. S. Other participants were from Appomattox H.S., Rustburg H. S., and Brookville H. S.

Public Speaking is just one part of the Leadership Training provided through Agricultural Education classes at Appomattox Intermediate School.

Warren is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Coleman of Rt. 2, Appomattox. FFA advisors are Rev. R. Q. Lawing, Mr. Henry Gibson and Mr. Dennis Torrence.

The Pastor Speaks

Highway Safety–
A Spiritual Problem

Our Lord said in Matthew 7: 12, "Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them."

Scarcely anyone will oppose the Golden Rule. Men the world over, even those who are not Christians, will say, "We ought to do unto others as we expect them to do unto us."

Most people, however, fail utterly to apply the Golden Rule in the matter of traffic safety. Safe driving, highway safety, is actually a symptom of a spiritual problem.

John T. Hanna, Safety Director of the Highway Safety Division of the Commonwealth of Virginia, said in a recent letter, "For each of the past seven years Virginia has seen more than a thousand people killed on her streets and highways. We are told that at least 90% of these tragedies would not have happened had everyone observed the Golden Rule at all times when walking and driving."

The most serious problems that cause accidents and deaths are alcohol and speed. At least 50% of our fatal crashes involve a drinking driver. Last year in the nation there were some 800,000 casualties resulting from excessive speed. There is plenty of room here for making the Golden Rule to read, "Drive along with others as you would have others drive along with you."

Sunday is one of the most dangerous days of the week as far as traffic is concerned. Last year Sundays saw 245 deaths in the state of Virginia. About 60% of all traffic deaths occur on Saturday and Sunday.

How often do you apply the Golden Rule in your driving? How often do you let another car at a four-way stop or intersection move ahead of you? Do you wait to let a weary motorist who can't get into the line of traffic enter your lane so that he can move on home? When your foot on the accelerator gets heavy and the speedometer soars up to 80 or 90, do you ever realize that the crash of your car into another can send someone soaring out into eternity or can confine him to bed as a hopeless cripple for the rest of his life?

Selfishness, thoughtlessness, and the aggressive American spirit cause many of our problems, especially in highway safety. If we begin to apply the Golden Rule in such a simple matter as highway safety, just think how many lives and limbs could be saved and preserved!

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ARE YOU READY?

Lesson for March 21, 1971

Background Scripture: Matthew 25: 1-13; Mark 13:28-37
Devotional Reading: Matthew 24: 36-44.

Most of the parables that Jesus told are teachings about the kingdom of God. Jesus used these stories to help his listeners understand what it was like. He did not describe it in generalities and abstract terms, but illustrated its nature through stories drawn from the lives of people.

Think of what he has said about the kingdom in these stories. In Matthew 13 there is a story about a man who sowed good seed in his field – on the day of judgment the wheat will be separated from the tares; only the righteous will enter the kingdom. In Matthew 18 he tells of a king who settled accounts with his servants – only those who forgive others will enter the kingdom. In Matthew 20 we find a householder who went out early in the morning to hire laborers for his vineyard – the kingdom is entered by the grace of God, not the merit of men. In Matthew 22 we find a king who gave a marriage feast for his son and sent his servants to call those who were invited – the kingdom will be entered by those who willingly respond to the great invitation.

Price Of Unreadiness

This week we turn to another parable of the kingdom in which we find that the kingdom may be compared to: ". . . ten maidens who took their lamps and went to meet the bridegroom." What is Jesus saying here about the kingdom?

The local wedding customs of Palestine directed that the bridegroom should come to the house of his bride in the evening. The time of his coming is not set for a specific hour, but is left indefinite, thus leading to a humorous suspense to the story. The ten girls are close friends of the bride and it is their duty to wait with her at the bride's home. It was traditional for them to go out to greet and welcome the bridegroom and escort him in honor to the bride.

When the delayed bridegroom comes, five of the girls are out trying to buy some additional oil for their lamps which have gone out. We may wonder why the five wise bridesmaids did not share their oil reserves with the others. Is Jesus telling us not to share what we have? No, this is only a detail in the story and is not intended to be an example for the Christian.

The point of the parable, then, is that failure to be ready for the kingdom's opportunities will keep us from experiencing them. We have, therefore, added to our list of people who will be excluded from the kingdom. Already tunity comes.

(Based on outlines copyrighted by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the USA. Released by Community Press Service.)

It includes: those who reje..t the invitation, those who are preoccupied with other matters, those who deny mercy to others – and now we add: those who do not prepare themselves for its coming.

Paved With 'Good Intentions'

There was nothing evil about the five "foolish" girls. They did not reject the invitation. They were not too preoccupied to come. They were not hateful or proud or unforgiving. They were simply careless, how foolish to lose such an opportunity!

Guidance - What Can The Pupil Expect?

(In an effort to acquaint the parents and community with the guidance services provided in the county public schools, a series of articles will be published over the next few weeks. The first is a resume of a talk given on January 12, 1971 to the Appomattox Intermediate School PTA by Mrs. Bolling Carter, eighth grade counselor.)

Since guidance is a relatively new branch of education, many people do not know what they can expect from the school counselor. In the Appomattox County Public Schools, guidance services are provided in grades eight through twelve. Each year every student in grades 8, 9, 10 11, and 12 has at least one conference with his counselor to talk over his present and future plans and goals. In addition to that conference scheduled by the counselor, any pupil may request a conference at anytime to talk over any problem he may have. Guidance services are for all pupils in the grades served. The counselor works with the individual pupil on an individual basis to help him with his individual problems and decisions.

What specifically can a pupil expect from his school guidance counselor? 1st – he may expect help in understanding himself- his abilities, his aptitudes, his interests, his personality, his strengths and his limitations. He can expect his counselor to talk over standardized test scores and what they mean to him now and will mean in the future. He also will talk over the progress he is making in school in light of these scores. The counselor will talk over with him what the pupil thinks of himself and what he wants to do with his life. In these ways, the counselor tries to get him to think and plan and formulate realistic goals for his life. 2nd – the pupil can expect his counselor to help him make the most of his school experiences. The counselor works with him on improvement of study habits and skills. He helps him in choosing the school subjects that will fit in with his plans for his life. A great deal of the counselor's work has to do with helping his counselees choose wisely for the next step in his education, 3rd – the pupil can expect his counselor to help him in understanding other people in the world in which he lives. He may seek the counselor's help in getting along better with teachers, parents, and his classmates. His counselor may help him see why his actions cause other people to react as they do to him. The counselor helps the pupil see the viewpoint of teachers, parents, and classmates. 4th – the pupil can expect his counselor to provide him with information on vocational and educational opportunities open to him after high school. He can expect the counselor to discuss this information with him in the light of the pupil's own interests and abilities.

The counselor is the one adult in the school situation who has the time set aside to help each individual student, individually, with his educational, vocational and personal problems and plans. His responsibility is to provide information to the pupil so that the pupil can make his own decisions and plans more wisely. He provides a listening ear and a helping hand in exploring the possibilites open to the pupil in his particular situation, with his particular interests and abilities and his particular circumstances.

The child's health record (immunization and disease history) and his/her official State birth certificate (not to be confused with the hospital certificate) are requested at the time of registration.

Early spring, rather than hot summer months, is considered to be more appropriate for immunization against smallpox. This vaccination is required by state law of all children attending school. Those who have not received this immunization on or before the 10th day of school year are excluded from attendance. Health Clinics sponsored by the County Health Department will be scheduled for those children who do not visit a private physician.

The schedule for pre-school registration is as follows:
